

Expansion Continues for Alliance Holdings, LLC with Acquisition of Bureau Veritas Emissions Monitoring Group

September 1, 2020

September 1, 2020 – Alliance Holdings, LLC (“Alliance”) has completed its fifth add-on acquisition with the purchase of the US-based Emissions Monitoring division (“EM”) of Bureau Veritas, a recognized world leader in testing, inspection and certification services. EM, now known as Alliance Emissions Monitoring, LLC (“AEM”), provides Leak Detection and Repair (“LDAR”) services and emissions data management solutions to customers throughout North America.

The formation of AEM is an important growth investment for Alliance, which is actively investing to build the premier emissions monitoring platform complement to its best-in-class source emissions testing group. Strategically, AEM significantly bolsters Alliance’s growing national presence, and provides increased capabilities to respond to complex, challenging emissions monitoring and testing projects. In addition, the partnership increases the range of services that Alliance is able to provide, allowing customers to increasingly benefit from our use of technology, and unparalleled response and customer service (i.e. The Alliance Advantage).

John Belus, Chief Operating Officer of AEM, said, “The Alliance acquisition delivers a combination of emissions testing and monitoring services that is unmatched in the industry; a combination that will leverage technology and service in a way that will strengthen compliance, and reduce risk for any industry in need of LDAR and Stack Testing services.”

The combination creates a strong national footprint of 17 offices and over 325 employees, with comprehensive geographic coverage and the technical expertise to serve a diverse range of end markets.

“This investment is a great complement to our growing national presence and allows us to strengthen the breadth of services in the industries we already serve today, as well as opens a completely new market for our best-in-class people, processes, and technology on a national basis,” noted Alliance CEO Chris LeMay. “The opportunity to partner with EM’s experienced leadership, managers, and technical team members expands our core competencies, deepens Alliance customer relationships, and provides a powerful platform for future growth.”
