

Colliers Engineering & Design Acquires Northern Survey Engineering

October 28, 2021

Colliers Engineering & Design, a national multi-discipline engineering design firm, is pleased to announce it has acquired Maine-based Northern Survey Engineering, LLC (NORSE). One of Maine's leading surveying firms, NORSE has been serving its clients with excellence since 2017.

"We are excited to have NORSE join our team," said Kevin L. Haney, PE, President/CEO of Colliers Engineering & Design. "This investment is an exciting evolution for our firm, establishing Colliers Engineering & Design's first office in the state of Maine which provides us with another important engine for growth.

NORSE maintains highly experienced staff with expertise in all facets of surveying that serves a wide client base including residential, commercial developers, construction companies, consulting firms, large-scale energy infrastructure and utility owners. Their areas of practice include boundary and subdivision, topographic surveys, construction layout, laser scanning, route surveys, UAS mapping, Alta and land title, and elevation certificates.
