

Day & Zimmermann Acquires Minnotte Contracting to Expand Market Reach

February 27, 2020

FEB. 26, 2020 – Day & Zimmermann (D&Z), the century-old, family-owned provider of construction, engineering, maintenance, staffing, and defense solutions for leading corporations and governments around the world, has announced the acquisition of Minnotte Contracting Corporation (Minnotte), a Pittsburgh-based union mechanical contractor and construction company. The acquisition broadens D&Z's union staffing and project management capabilities.

Minnotte, a privately owned company founded in 1961, is a leading union mechanical contractor and maintenance company serving industrial customers and power utilities in the Ohio Valley.

"This transaction helps to not only strengthen our service capabilities for existing construction and maintenance customers but also allows us to support the development of the country's natural gas and petrochemical infrastructure," said Michael McMahon, President of Day & Zimmermann's Engineering, Construction & Maintenance group.

"I have long admired Day & Zimmermann as one of the most respected companies in the electric utility industry. This acquisition will be a true benefit for our customers and our employees," said Minnotte Contracting Owner Dave Minnotte. "We are excited to join a leader in the industry and contribute to the continued success of D&Z."

"This acquisition demonstrates our continued commitment to helping our power and industrial customers realize the lowest total cost of operations and project execution" continued Mr. McMahon, "Minnotte provides critical resources in an environment where the supply of skilled labor management is scarce. They're a great cultural fit and complement to our business."
