

DCCM acquires RQAW

July 1, 2022

DCCM, a national provider of design, consulting, and program & construction management services based in Houston, Texas, is pleased to announce the acquisition of RQAW.

Headquartered in Fishers, Indiana, RQAW is a full-service engineering and architecture firm. In acquiring RQAW, DCCM is expanding its existing partnership with industry veteran Troy Woodruff, who will be continuing in his role as Chief Executive Officer of RQAW.

“RQAW has a long history in the A/E/C industry,” said James F. (Jim) Thompson, PE, DBIA, CEO of DCCM. “Our operation has grown rapidly, and once combined with DCCM, RQAW will provide us with a solid platform throughout the Midwest. Additionally, we look forward to capitalizing on RQAW’s diverse services being offered in our other geographies across the U.S. I am pleased to welcome such an experienced team of professionals to DCCM, and I am enthusiastic about the opportunities this relationship presents.”

“RQAW’s mission is to deliver infrastructure and building solutions that propel communities forward,” said Troy Woodruff. “This strategic partnership with DCCM will enable us to complete the build-out of our vision to deliver our services across the United States. We are thrilled to be joining the DCCM family.”
