

EN Engineering Acquires G2 Integrated Solutions

December 20, 2021

Today, EN Engineering (“EN”) announced the acquisition of G2 Integrated Solutions (“G2-IS”), which is a national provider of critical asset integrity and compliance solutions for operators of natural gas and electrical infrastructure.

“We are thrilled to have G2-IS join EN,” said Adam Biggam, CEO of EN Engineering. “This partnership will bring together two leaders in asset integrity consulting and will significantly enhance the capabilities and reach of both of our organizations.”

Based out of Houston, Texas, G2-IS offers a suite of consulting services that enable clients to efficiently and safely operate within regulatory and compliance frameworks. Focused on technology-enabled service delivery, G2-IS provides industry-leading solutions to clients across a broad range of the energy market.

“I can think of no better partners for G2 and our people than Adam and his team at EN. We are looking forward to leveraging our complementary services to deliver optimal solutions to our clients,” said Shawn Altizer, CEO of G2 Integrated Solutions. “Together, EN and G2-IS will offer an unparalleled level of technical expertise and innovative thought-leadership to the industry.”
