

Fyoog becomes an IA company

December 09, 2021

At IA we believe it's important to lead by design while continuing to evolve and expand our commitment to being agents of change. To this end, we are excited to announce that FYOOG, a design and architecture firm focused on creating large-scale custom artworks and commercial renovations has joined IA. FYOOG's unique offering enhances IA's focus on how people experience space, whether it is in a large urban setting, a suburban campus, a major development, or beyond.

"We are delighted to join IA. Our shared values and commitment to design excellence solidifies our ability to provide world-class spaces and experiences. We have tremendous respect for IA and look forward to working together in this exciting new venture." - Dan Cheetham AIA, NCARB, LEED AP BD + C, Founder, FYOOG.

This addition to IA leverages our combined expertise and enables us to offer our clients unique offerings that go well beyond traditional architecture and design. FYOOG, as a part of IA, will continue to be a stand-alone studio for Artwork. FYOOG's architectural services will be offered as a specialized service incorporated into our integrated design approach.

"IA is committed to designing for the user-experience, so we're thrilled to have FYOOG join our IA family. FYOOG is a firm that is aligned with IA's belief that the future of quality design is deeply connected to how users experience the space itself. We are excited to have FYOOG join in our journey to make lives better through design and look forward to reaching new heights, together." – Tom Powers & David Bourke, IA Interior Architects Co-CEOs and Presidents

Link to original press release:

<https://interiorarchitects.com/ia-updates/fyoog-becomes-an-ia-company/>