

Journey Group Acquires Well-Known North Sioux City Commercial, Residential Construction Firms

January 25, 2021

Journey Group has acquired two new business units based in North Sioux City, adding instant expertise in food processing manufacturing construction and residential homebuilding.

MBW Construction & Engineering and Brown Wegher Residential have become part of Sioux Falls-based Journey, adding 50 employees and bringing the team to approximately 300 team members firmwide.

“This brings both groups a lot of real growth opportunities,” Journey CEO Randy Knecht said. “We knew we needed to diversify both the markets and the geographies we serve, and this acquisition fits both those needs.”

MBW has intentionally grown its presence in the food production construction industry, working on expansion and modernization projects for food processing and manufacturing facilities nationwide.

“We’re growing rapidly, and the addition of Journey, with its structure, just makes a big impact for us. And the culture matchup was almost seamless,” said Tim Brown, president of MBW and a more than 30-year veteran of the construction industry.
