

JVA, Inc. Acquires Structural Consultants Inc.

February 4, 2020

JVA is thrilled to announce that Structural Consultants Inc. (SCI) has joined JVA. SCI has provided structural engineering services in the Denver market since 1977. Consistent with JVA's corporate mission statement, they take pride in consistently providing highly personalized service, sound engineering and high-quality documents to their clients. SCI is known for their comprehensive design and consulting services to owners, architects, fabricators and contractors. Their expertise in healthcare, education, commercial development and forensics complements JVA's strong history of structural services in these same markets.

Paul Hause (Principal), Chris Taylor (Sr. Project Manager) and Katie Courtright (Project Engineer) have joined JVA's structural team at their Writer Square Office in Denver's LoDo District. Their addition to the staff greatly enhances JVA's capabilities. Paul, Chris and Katie look forward to furthering the professional client relationships built on trust and respect that they have nurtured over the past 40 years.

With offices in Boulder, Denver, Fort Collins, Winter Park and Glenwood Springs, JVA, Inc. has provided their clients with creative engineering solutions and excellent service since 1956. JVA's structural, civil, and environmental engineering teams have flourished over the years to foster a dynamic workplace that encourages innovation and professional development. The team takes great pride in being an employee-owned firm with a strong, cohesive culture. As a legacy firm with a tradition of well-planned leadership succession, JVA is pleased to have SCI's staff join the firm. This merger reflects JVA's commitment to continual improvement and strengthening of JVA's client services.
