

Lionakis + Lundstrom & Associates

January 21, 2020

Lionakis is starting 2020 off with a bang! We are pleased to announce that effective January 1, 2020, Lionakis acquired Lundstrom & Associates (L&A), an Irvine, CA architecture firm which specializes in Laboratory Design for clients within the Science, Technology and Education markets. We welcome their entire team as they join our firm and move into the Lionakis Newport Beach, CA office today.

Like us, they share a commitment to excellent project performance, client relationships and outstanding design. We are excited to offer our clients additional expertise and an expanded team which shares our values, along with a continued commitment to excellence. This acquisition positions Lionakis to offer Laboratory Design services in addition to providing our full range of design services to clients in the Science and Technology market.

As our business and capacity continues to grow, we know that this strategic addition of experienced architects and designers offers our clients and industry partners the opportunity to capitalize on our past successes and continue to grow stronger as we move forward.

Link to original press release:

<https://www.lionakis.com/lionakis-lundstrom-associates/>