INTEGRATING THE INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY GOVERNMENT CONTRACTOR EXPANDS ANSER ADVISORY'S FEDERAL CAPABILITIES, AS WELL AS CLIENT AND PARTNER RELATIONSHIPS.

Anser Advisory announced today that it acquired IntegrateIT as part of its federal division. The Anser Advisory federal division currently operates as a wholly-owned subsidiary under the Markon Solutions brand. IntegrateIT is a government contracting firm that provides information technology professional services and support to the intelligence community. The acquisition of IntegrateIT represents the joining of two like-minded organizations resulting in a powerhouse of the best talent, innovative processes, and integrated professional services in the industry.

Customers should expect no noticeable change in personnel, service, or support, as IntegrateIT team members will continue to support their clients' missions with minimal change to day-to-day operations, and IntegrateIT's support commitments will be honored.

This acquisition has many benefits to Anser Advisory including adding outstanding new team members, supporting Anser Advisory's growth goals, growing existing relationships with customers and partners, and bolstering Anser Advisory's growing Enterprise IT solution.

Anser Advisory's COO and President of the Markon Solutions subsidiary, Matt Dean, pledged to take care of IntegrateIT employees and customers. Both companies value employee and customer satisfaction as top priorities: "We are thrilled to welcome the IntegrateIT personnel to our team. This outstanding group of new team members will help broaden our subject matter expertise while helping deepen key customer relationships. We have worked to cultivate an exceptional culture and we are confident we have a lot to offer our new team members," said Dean.

IntegrateIT's CEO David Baldini added, "As I entered discussions about our future together, I grew increasingly impressed by their core values and performance. I am not alone in that assessment – several of our clients and partners have called Markon/Anser Advisory a great company as well. I am confident this is the right moment for action and forges a stronger and more comprehensive platform for future growth and stability. This business combination offers an opportunity to bolster our current offerings, expand our capabilities, and continue our outstanding support to clients."
