

PMA EXTENDS REACH TO AUSTIN

May 5, 2020

Project Management Advisors, Inc. (PMA) is excited to announce the acquisition of American Realty Project Management as part of PMA's strategy to expand its national footprint for a growing client base.

"The successful relationship between our firms has developed over the last many years of working together in the Austin market," noted PMA Eastern Regional President, Andrew Roscoe. "We felt it was a prudent move to permanently join forces to expand our client base and industry sector involvement in Austin and the broader region."

With the acquisition, Ross Anders, formerly a Managing Partner of ARPM, becomes an equity owner of the company and joins PMA's senior leadership team as the General Manager in Austin.

"We are very fortunate to have Ross lead our Austin team," said Roscoe. "He brings with him a strong pulse of the market which will help us further grow our business in the region. Ross is well respected as a trusted adviser to clients and known for his leadership in helping them navigate project complexities."

Ross brings more than 20 years of experience to this role, including construction management, general contracting, project management and design firm operations, and has overseen development and construction projects for Fortune 500 companies and non-profit organizations. Project highlights include The Thinkery Children's Museum, The Texas State Capitol Dome Restoration, St. Andrew's Episcopal School, Google, VISA, and PIMCO. Anders also has a deep passion for community involvement with his role as founding board member and current President of the Central Texas Folds of Honor chapter and board member for the Hill Country Conservancy.

The commitment/investment in this acquisition solidifies PMA's national reach. The company now has locations in Austin, Chicago, Los Angeles, Orlando, San Diego, and San Francisco and will soon be announcing an office on the East Coast.
