

RLG Consulting Engineers Acquires ATSE Consultants, LLC.

January 15, 2020

We are thrilled to announce that with the turn of the new year, RLG acquires ATSE Consultants, LLC. (ATSE), a professional design firm that specialized in structural design and analysis of new and existing structures. It's business as usual only now we have new resources and capabilities to continue driving value for you and clients across the country.

We continue to maintain the reputation of a Dallas-based civil, structural, forensic engineering and surveying firm committed to providing quality nationwide services across a variety of market sectors. This acquisition allows RLG to expand our base in structural and forensics engineering services. With this well-planned acquisition, RLG has absorbed ATSE employees registered in 17 states. "This acquisition will strengthen our structural engineering services and provide a large increase in RLG's bandwidth, ensuring the firm will continue to meet the needs of today's rapid-growth market," says Stuart Markussen, President and CEO at RLG.

Though the firm's employee base has increased, the organization's structure will remain the same and there will be no changes in the roles of RLG's top officials. We are optimistic about the acquisition benefits and anticipate future growth to follow!
