

Expanding our reach in the Midwest

May 26, 2022

RTM Engineering Consultants, a national engineering consulting firm offering services in mechanical, electrical, plumbing, civil engineering, fire protection, technology, and commissioning is pleased to announce its recent acquisition of BRiC Partnership, LLC, an engineering consulting firm based in Belleville, Ill. with offices in Springfield, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., and Evansville, Ind.

“We are excited about expanding our capabilities throughout the Midwest and growing our exceptional team of experts, whose core values and work ethic resonate so closely with what RTM has built over the last 40 years,” says RTM CEO Tony Mirchandani. “The reputation that the BRiC team has developed in their local markets is unmatched and I’m looking forward to the opportunities we will be able to embark on together.”

BRiC Partnership is a 20-year-old firm providing mechanical, electrical, plumbing, fire protection, and technology services to clients across the Midwest. Their attention to detail, responsiveness to project needs, and dedication to quality engineering design has rewarded them with a substantial portfolio in the educational, healthcare, commercial, industrial, and government market sectors. The team at BRiC strives to bring creativity and innovation to each project, as well as their technical expertise and strong project leadership.

“A great culture fit was one of the leading factors in our decision to merge with RTM, and we’re excited to see our team continue to grow and develop their expertise in the marketplace.” Said BRiC Principal, Eric Rogers. “The portfolio and client relationships RTM has worked to build over the years aligns greatly with our own and we’re looking forward to taking on new and challenging projects with our team.”

RTM’s expanded team of 250+ engineering professionals, now located in 17 offices across the country and licensed in all 50 states, provides “National Resources and Local Relationships” to our growing client base.
