

Santo Domingo Engineering Merges with RZ Design

April 1, 2022

Hartford's Santo Domingo Engineering LLC structural engineering firm merged with RZ Design Associates, Inc. of Rocky Hill.

While Oscar Santo Domingo has retired, his remaining staff members have integrated with RZ Design's team in the Rocky Hill headquarters where they will continue offering clients the exceptional service they have come to expect.

"Having an established structural engineering and design team already, we knew it was a great fit for Santo Domingo Engineering to merge with our firm. Their reputation for providing stellar engineering and service makes them an incredible asset for RZ Design. We are pleased to add to our project portfolio and to serve existing Santo Domingo clients. We will continue to deliver personal service and precise engineering and design and utilize the additional talent for future RZ projects," says Robert Ricard, PE, president of RZ Design.

Led by the firm's partners, whose combined experience total 170 years, RZ Design is the continuation of the former Legnos & Cramer consulting engineering firm (est. in 1952). Together, the legacy has strengthened RZ Design's brand through the successful engineering and design in excess of 10,000 projects for new construction, renovations, historical buildings, additions, utility retrofits serving the education, municipal, retail, restaurant, residential, hospitality commercial, healthcare and recreational markets.

Link to original press release:

<https://rzdesignassociates.com/santo-domingo-engineering-merges-with-rz-design/>