

SEBAGO TECHNICS ACQUIRES TITCOMB ASSOCIATES

April 2, 2021

Sebago Technics, a civil engineering, survey, transportation, landscape architecture, and environmental services consulting firm based in South Portland, Maine, announces the acquisition of Titcomb Associates (TA) of Falmouth and Bath, Maine. TA has provided high quality surveying services throughout Maine and Northern New England for more than 50 years.

The firm was founded by Robert P. Titcomb in 1969 and has been owned and operated by David Titcomb since 1985. Mr. Titcomb will continue with the business serving clients for the next few years. TA has provided boundary, topographic, ALTA, roadway/highway, and construction-related survey services to a wide array of private and public sector clients.

Mark Adams, President and CEO of Sebago Technics stated, “Sebago Technics and its employee-owners are excited to have David Titcomb and his experienced staff join the Sebago team. Titcomb Associates great history, reputation and loyal client base are a wonderful addition. With the combined acquisitions of Titcomb Associates and Sawyer Engineering and Surveying (12-31-20), Sebago now has the largest surveying-geomatics staff in Maine and perhaps Northern New England. The capabilities of our team of survey-geomatics professionals and technologies provide unmatched services to clients. The acquisition and personnel will also support our continued growth and future opportunities.”

For Titcomb Associates, the sale is a means of ownership, client, and employee succession to assure that all are transitioned to a respected and like-minded company.

David Titcomb noted “I am excited about the acquisition by Sebago Technics. It provides a stable succession for both my business and employees. I believe that the culture, services and resources that Sebago provides will enhance opportunities for our employees and greater service to our clients. I look forward to being an integral part of our combined companies while maintaining the strong reputation and quality work that Titcomb is known for.”

For Sebago, the acquisition is a strategic opportunity to add both talented professionals and an expanded client base. Clients and projects will benefit from Sebago’s expanded services in areas such as landscape architecture, traffic/transportation engineering, geomatics/reality capture, UAS photogrammetry 3D modeling, construction inspection, and environmental services. The result will be greater opportunities for Sebago, its employee-owners, and clients. The company will operate as Titcomb Associates – a division of Sebago Technics, keeping the Titcomb name and reputation alive.
