

Good News From St.Germain

March 4, 2020

To our valued clients, vendors, partners and friends: It is with great pleasure that today we announce the completion of St.Germain's acquisition of MAI Environmental, a South Portland, Maine-based environmental consulting and field-testing services firm founded in 2000 by Maine licensed geologist John Marchewka. Over its 20 years in business, MAI Environmental earned a reputation for delivering solutions for complex environmental and geological projects throughout Maine and New England. This acquisition expands St.Germain's environmental investigation, remediation, and site redevelopment services and, as a result, MAI Environmental clients will have access to a full suite of environmental consulting, civil engineering and environmental, health and safety (EHS) compliance services. Clients can expect "business as usual" while also benefiting from the combined resources and expertise of a single, full-service provider. So, what does this mean? Other than a few new faces, you will see no change to your day to day experience with St.Germain. MAI Environmental's two employees, John Marchewka and Paul Prescott, have joined our environmental services team and will continue serving their clients without disruption. Moving forward, what you will see are significant benefits in the following areas:

Additional expertise in environmental investigation, remediation, and site redevelopment

Increased capacity to deliver responsive, dedicated client service

Increased efficiency and convenience of a single, full-service provider for your needs
