

Tetra Tech Expands High Performance Buildings Practice with Acquisition of Hoare Lea

July 27, 2021

Tetra Tech, Inc. (NASDAQ: TTEK), a leading provider of high-end consulting and engineering services, announced today that it has acquired Hoare Lea, a leader in sustainable engineering design. Established in 1862, Hoare Lea is an industry leading consultancy firm in the United Kingdom, with more than 900 employees.

“The addition of Hoare Lea to our High Performance Buildings Group further advances Tetra Tech’s industry-leading sustainable building solutions for our commercial and government clients,” said Dan Batrack, Tetra Tech Chairman and CEO. “They join our global practice that provides state-of-the-art net zero carbon design, digital engineering and building intelligence for the future of the built environment.”

“We are excited to join Tetra Tech,” said Justin Spencer, Hoare Lea Managing Partner. “Engineers play a critical role in addressing the global challenges we all face, balancing the tension between planet-conscious and people-centric design. By joining the High Performance Buildings Group we will be able to build upon our strong and successful history of delivering outstanding outcomes for our clients.”

The terms of the acquisition were not disclosed.
