

Alpine launches engineering services platform Trilon Group through partnership with Waggoner Engineering

February 01, 2022

Alpine Investors, a people-driven private equity firm committed to building enduring businesses, has announced the launch of Trilon Group, its newly formed engineering services platform. Waggoner Engineering, a Mississippi-based engineering services firm, is Trilon's first platform partnership and will continue to operate independently under the Waggoner brand. Terms of the private transaction were not disclosed.

Trilon was formed with the vision of building the next Top 20 design firm in North America by partnering with a comprehensive family of engineering services businesses focused on delivering practical and sustainable infrastructure solutions. Trilon will partner with like-minded engineering firms across the nation and aims to accelerate their growth through investment in talent, technology, and targeted M&A. Trilon's key markets include Transportation, Water, Energy, Environment, and Community Infrastructure.

Alpine plans to invest up to $200 million of equity capital to fund the organic and inorganic growth of Trilon. In partnership with Alpine's in-house talent program, Trilon will focus on cultivating a culture that provides opportunities for its employees to quickly expand their purposeful careers. Trilon will invest heavily in developing and elevating talent across its family of companies with multiple career paths spanning technical, project management, business management, business development, and operations.

Alpine plans to invest up to $200 million of equity capital to fund the organic and inorganic growth of Trilon. In partnership with Alpine's in-house talent program, Trilon will focus on cultivating a culture that provides opportunities for its employees to quickly expand their purposeful careers. Trilon will invest heavily in developing and elevating talent across its family of companies with multiple career paths spanning technical, project management, business management, business development, and operations.

"At Trilon, we believe infrastructure is the backbone of the communities we serve," said Trilon CEO Mick Renshaw. "Done well, infrastructure can improve lives by promoting opportunity, equity, sustainability, and safety. I am excited to partner with Alpine as we share common views on the importance of investing in talent and technology. We invest to both help leading firms like Waggoner thrive and give their team members new opportunities for career growth within the Trilon group. We know this type of platform can be the perfect future home for other like-minded businesses."

"Trilon's and Mick's focus on scaling and elevating talent to in-turn build enduring communities fits right in line with Alpine's people-first culture, values, and goal of being a Force For Good in the world," said Alpine Partner Dan Sanner. "We are ecstatic to welcome them to the family and to lend them our expertise in building enduring software and services businesses."

Link to original press release:
<https://www.trilongroup.com/#1>