

TruHorizon Environmental Solutions Announces Acquisition of Phase Engineering

November 23, 2021

TruHorizon Environmental Solutions (TruHorizon) today announced that it acquired the assets of Phase Engineering, Inc. (Phase), a leading environmental engineering and consulting firm serving clients throughout the United States.

“This transaction represents an excellent strategic opportunity for TruHorizon as we continue to expand our environmental consulting business. Over the past 28 years, Phase has developed a reputation as one of the highest-quality environmental consulting firms in the country and we are pleased to welcome the team to TruHorizon. We plan to expand both the geographic reach and services offered by Phase during the coming months,” said Michael W. Harlan, Chief Executive Officer of TruHorizon.

Founded in 1993 by James Dismukes and co-owned with Melanie Edmundson since 1996, Phase with its dedicated, in-house staff of professionals, has provided over 20,000 environmental and property condition assessments to commercial lenders, real estate developers, property owners, companies, and other organizations involved in the purchase or sale of real estate, buildings, and other properties.

James Dismukes, founder and President of Phase said, “After almost three decades, I felt now was the time to transition ownership of Phase. I know that TruHorizon shares our vision to provide the highest quality product in the environmental industry, combined with outstanding customer service to our clients. I look forward to helping TruHorizon continue to grow the Phase business.”.
