

TWM increases Tennessee presence in Chattanooga; acquires Meyer Transportation Consultants

October 05, 2021

TWM, Inc. is excited to announce the recent acquisition of Meyer Transportation Consultants, Inc. to expand its presence and operations in Tennessee, which were first initiated in 2018. After working for government and private sector clients for over 40 years, Steve Meyer, PE, founded Meyer Transportation Consultants in Chattanooga to provide a range of transportation and traffic engineering services to clients throughout the Southeast and mid-Atlantic states. Steve is joining TWM as Chief Traffic Engineer/Transportation Innovation Strategies Leader and will augment TWM's existing traffic services and capabilities to further grow and bring this specialized service to more valued clients in all our service areas including middle and eastern Tennessee.

As a former municipal and county engineer, a traffic leader at several engineering consulting firms, and most recently as owner of his own business, Steve is licensed as a PE in 14 states plus Washington, DC. Steve's project experience includes Intelligent Transportation System design for the City of Chattanooga, on-call traffic signal design for TDOT, an interchange signal system for I-75, a traffic impact study for a major automotive assembly plant in Chattanooga, and much more. Among his specialties are traffic simulation, signal timing plans, strategic planning, and superstreet analyses and simulations.

Steve's background, work ethic, and years of experience in providing high quality traffic engineering solutions are an ideal fit for TWM and the company mission of Exceptional Service. Nothing Less. "Joining TWM is an exciting opportunity for me to help further develop their transportation services throughout Chattanooga while building a larger footprint in the broader eastern and middle Tennessee regions," said Steve. "I'm able to continue serving my existing clients by offering them additional services and will enjoy the opportunity to forge a new path as part of the TWM team."

TWM's President Robert DeConcini, PE, noted, "We're pleased to welcome Steve and Meyer Transportation Consultants to TWM's staff and look forward to developing innovative traffic engineering strategies that will successfully serve the people and communities in Chattanooga, the Nashville metro, the state of Tennessee, and throughout the Southeast."
