

Mackay Engineering and Surveying (MES) has announced it has officially become part of WallacePancher Group (WPG), a civil engineering and environmental consulting firm headquartered in Hermitage, Pennsylvania.

January 5, 2022

MES's owners and management team will continue in their leadership roles in the new organization.

"We are happy to continue providing excellent service to our clients and look forward to expanding our range of services as part of the WallacePancher Group," said Michael MacKay, MES President.

Mackay Engineering and Surveying proudly services the Greater Cleveland and Northeast Ohio area. For over 60 years, Mackay has been providing land surveying, civil engineering, municipal engineering, boundary surveys, land title surveys, topographic surveys and more.

"We are excited to be joining with a firm that has been exceeding its client expectations and providing quality engineering and surveying services for many complex projects in the Greater Cleveland area since 1956," said Brian Pancher, WPG Co-Founder.

Daniel Wallace, P.E., Co-Founder of WPG said "MES and WPG complement each other very well in their respective service sectors and this will provide us an opportunity to grow our customer base and our service lines. This provides excellent opportunities for our staff and clients, and we are thrilled to have the MES team as part of our group."

Civil engineering has been a core part of WPG's business for more than 20 years.

Link to original press release:

<https://wallacepanchergroup.com/acquisition-announcement/>