

Walden Announces Acquisition of Turnkey Compliance Services

September 3, 2021

Walden Environmental Engineering (Walden), a provider of civil and environmental engineering services headquartered in Oyster Bay, LI, announced today that it has purchased Turnkey Compliance Solutions (Turnkey). Turnkey is based in CT and specializes in Environmental, Health, and Safety (EHS) consulting services.

With the acquisition of Turnkey, both firms increase their service offerings in the markets they serve. “I am truly excited about this acquisition,” said Joseph Heaney, President of Walden. “The combination of Walden and Turnkey creates a synergy that will allow us to offer our clients expanded but complementary services and expertise.”

“I founded Turnkey, with Mark Morgano in 2006, based on a mutual desire to provide our clients a superior level of service. We did not feel those businesses—now our clients—were getting a quality product from other companies. We are determined to be more connected with our clients on all of their day-to-day business and compliance objectives,” said Mike Balda, co-founder, Turnkey. “This acquisition will allow us to continue providing our clients with the outstanding service they are accustomed to while expanding our services and solutions for them through the additional environmental and engineering services Walden provides. It is a winning situation all around, and our whole team is excited to be part of Walden.”

This acquisition will help facilitate the growth of both firms by allowing easier access to other markets while expanding their footprint and reach in the markets in which they currently operate. Turnkey has grown into a respected source of EHS programs including site-specific safety plans, hazardous waste management, and related training programs, which will mesh quite nicely with the services of Walden, a provider of civil and environmental engineering services.

“The acquisition of Turnkey will give Walden the opportunity to expand our service offerings into areas of New England, particularly Connecticut. Equally, Walden will help Turnkey grow by giving their extensive roster of clients engineering services,” said Heaney. “Now, clients of both Walden and Turnkey will have one source to turn to for a comprehensive list of services. That helps the clients, Walden and Turnkey operate with maximum efficiency.”

Turnkey Compliance Solutions will be known as Turnkey Compliance Solutions, a Division of Walden Environmental Engineering. Turnkey’s founders will remain as Directors of this newly created division within Walden. Balda continued, “Nothing will change for our customers. In fact, the Turnkey team will remain intact, allowing a seamless transition. Our ability to play a greater role in satisfying clients’ needs will increase.”
