

Weihe Engineers Acquires Massmann Land Surveyors

January 10, 2020

Weihe Engineers has acquired St. Louis based Massmann Land Surveyors. The acquisition strengthens both companies' local operations in the St. Louis Metropolitan Area.

Massmann Land Surveyors started in 1977 providing land surveying services to five counties comprising the Greater St. Louis Metropolitan Area (St. Louis, St. Charles, Jefferson, St. Clair and Madison). Bill Massmann, founder and former owner, along with all current staff will be retained and continue in their roles. The company will remain under the Massmann Land Surveyors brand name. "This is a great day for Massmann Land Surveyors and its clients. Weihe Engineers is a highly reputable land surveying, civil / site engineering and landscape architecture firm in the Midwest with lots of resources and technology to accelerate our growth and better serve our local clients," shared Bill Massmann. The company focuses on providing better, more informational, more valuable, and more timely accurate land surveys.

Weihe Engineers, which opened an office in St. Louis in 2018, sees this merger as an important component towards being a full-service firm. Brady Kuhn, Vice President of Land Surveying at Weihe Engineers, said, "Our local and national clients in this area need responsive and quality land surveying services for their land development initiatives. By teaming with Massmann Land Surveyors, we will be able to bring a single-source offering to better meet quality standards as well as stay ahead of deadlines."
