

CDR Maguire, Inc. Acquires McTish, Kunkel and Associates

August 2, 2022

CDR Maguire, Inc. announced today that it has acquired McTish, Kunkel and Associates, an engineering, environmental, survey, and construction inspection services firm based out of Allentown, PA providing services to clients in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia.

The acquisition of McTish, Kunkel and Associates is a key catalyst to the continued growth of CDR Maguire Engineering in the Pennsylvania market and ensures a great opportunity to bring collective expertise to our PENNDOT, Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, and authority, municipal, and private clients—expanding our engineering capabilities while delivering the newest innovations, approaches, and technologies in design and construction.

“Knowing McTish as a top-quality service provider while I was a client and viewing them as a fierce competitor during my time in consulting, it was apparent that McTish was a key acquisition for our growth strategy in Pennsylvania,” said H. Daniel Cessna, P.E., President of CDR Maguire Engineering. “With the support of our owner, Carlos Duarte, and our leadership team, I made it my priority to get this deal done. We look forward to a great future together as we work with the McTish team to fully integrate these firms by the end of the year.”

David J. McTish, P.G., President and owner of McTish, will join CDR Maguire Engineering as an Executive Vice President, leading the integration of Construction Management and Inspection Services across the firm and then transitioning into a Senior Advisor role. Matthew Macey, P.E., COO of CDR Maguire Engineering, will lead the integration of all Design Services across the firm. Stephen Shadle, P.E., Vice President of CDR Maguire Engineering, will lead the integration of Project and Program Management Services. Cessna added, “All employees will be retained, and we look forward to continuing to provide top-notch services to our clients through the employees they are accustomed to working with. Our collective efforts will ensure a seamless transition for our clients.”

Combining CDR Maguire Engineering’s strong presence in Western Pennsylvania with McTish, Kunkel and Associates’ strong presence in Northcentral and Eastern, PA will accelerate our Pennsylvania growth strategy while creating new opportunities for all employees. “As we considered this acquisition, there was clear alignment in both client service and a ‘big project’ focus. While we also serve our clients’ small project needs, both firms are strategic about winning and delivering big projects—these projects provide the greatest challenges to our employees and help to attract and retain top talent,” adds Cessna.
