August 23, 2022

Trilon Group (“Trilon”), a family of infrastructure consulting businesses, is excited to announce its strategic partnership with Alta Planning + Design, Inc. (“Alta”), a globally renowned active mobility and sustainability consulting firm. With the addition of Alta, the Trilon Group’s annual revenue exceeds $215 million, which would have ranked Trilon as #90 on Engineering News Record’s (ENR) 2022 Top 500 Design Firms based on the publicly available selection criteria. ENR is a leading infrastructure and engineering industry publication that reports on top firms leading in these sectors both in the US and around the world.

Founded in 1996, Alta pioneered the field of active transportation, evolving their planning and design work into a visionary global practice that focuses on climate change mitigation, traffic safety, and the future of human-powered mobility. Alta currently has 200 staff located across the US and Canada. With Trilon’s capital and resource support, the partnership will allow Alta to continue its quality service for clients and expand its M&A strategy and organic growth through the addition of talented staff, investment in technology, and expansion of its sustainability practice and racial/social justice focus.

“Alta imagines a limitless future through our transportation expertise, and we are driven to deliver exceptional experiences for our clients. Through a thoughtful and deliberate selection process, we found an ideal partner in Trilon whose strategy and values closely match Alta’s,” commented Brett Hondorp, Chief Executive Officer at Alta. “I am confident that it will provide investment, ownership, and career opportunities that make it the best decision for Alta’s continued growth.”
