September 19, 2022

Manley Spangler Smith Architects (MSSA), a Georgia-based, full-service architectural firm specializing in educational and municipal facilities, announced today a significant development aimed at increasing its capabilities, expertise, and suite of services. MSSA has merged with PBK, a nationally renowned architecture firm known for its comprehensive services and leadership in the field of educational facilities design. In 2022, PBK was ranked as the #1 Education Design Firm by Building Design+Construction widely regarded as the engineering and design industry's premiere publication.

The combined firm is known as MSSA-PBK and has two Georgia offices located in Griffin and Sugar Hill.

Dan Boggio, Executive Chairman of PBK said, "What the MSSA Principals have accomplished to this point is extremely impressive. MSSA is a recognized leader in education and municipal design in Georgia and is extremely well regarded by its customers. Combining their long track record of exceptional local service and design excellence with PBK, results in Georgia's most impressive full-service educational facilities design firm."

Roy Montalbano, PBK President, further added, "The MSSA-PBK professionals are innovative and are on the leading edge of education architecture and design, ensuring that clients can accomplish their goals and perhaps most importantly, they are enriching peoples' lives by improving the educational experience for the learners of today and those of the future."

"This merger of PBK and MSSA is a significant opportunity, not only for our firms but more importantly, for the clients we serve," said V. Smith, MSSA-PBK Partner. "MSSA-PBK will have the resources and capabilities to provide our clients the expertise of a large firm, delivered with the intimacy of a smaller, local firm."
