Verdantas, a private-equity backed solution provider of engineering, planning, and science services to clients in the natural and built environments, announced today that it had acquired Environmental Strategies & Management (ES&M), a provider of Environmental, Health and Safety (EHS) consulting and engineering services in New England. ES&M strengthens Verdantas' environmental-related service offerings and expands its capability to secure funding for Brownfields' site assessment and remediation sites on behalf of clients.

"We are excited to welcome ES&M to Verdantas. ES&M has a strong reputation in New England with the regulatory agencies and their clients. Their focus on their people, and values to create a great place to work along with their dedication to deliver high-quality, value-added services fits perfectly with Verdantas," said Gerry Salontai, CEO of Verdantas.

"We've been proud to team together and work across the table with ES&M experts over a number of years and look forward to having them on our team," adds Nikki Delude Roy, Northeast Area Manager VP of Verdantas.

"Joining Verdantas enables us to expand our expertise in securing grants to bring funding for Verdantas' clients in pursuit of assessment and remediation work," said Doug Heely, PG, LSP, Principal. "This move will bring added opportunities for our employees' professional growth and expanded capabilities to ES&M's long-term clients."

Christopher Lee, Co-Founder and Managing Partner at RTC (Round Table Capital) Partners remarked, "Continuing our focus on strategic growth for Verdantas, ES&M brings expansion into the New England region and added engineering and technical expertise to solve our client's complex environment and supporting infrastructure challenges."
