Jensen Hughes, a global leader in life safety, security and risk-based engineering and consulting, announced today its acquisition of BRANDGRUPPEN, a specialist fire engineering consultancy in Denmark. The acquisition of BRANDGRUPPEN marks the company's first entry into the Danish market, where recent certification changes are expected to drive growth in the fire engineering industry.

BRANDGRUPPEN was established in Copenhagen in 2021 by highly experienced Directors Thomas Schleidt, Allan Hansen and Nicholas Brogaard. "Every BRANDGRUPPEN team member is essential to the success of our engineering consultancy. Becoming part of the Jensen Hughes team provides opportunities for our employees to work on complex projects to enhance their experience and fire engineering qualifications. During the integration process, we will continue normal operations as a co-branded entity," said Thomas Schleidt.

"Joining the largest fire engineering firm in the world enhances career opportunities for our employees within Denmark, across Europe and globally. It will also provide our clients a significantly expanded level of expertise and service offerings," said Allan Hansen. Echoing of the positivity of the BRANDGRUPPEN team, Nicholas Brogaard added, "Our business focus on fire safety engineering makes this the perfect fit to join the world's premier fire engineering consultancy company. We are excited for the future."

"The BRANDGRUPPEN focus on people, culture, performance and commitment to technical excellence and exceptional client service made this acquisition an easy decision. We are delighted to welcome this dynamic, specialist company to our team and we are excited to tap into Denmark's high growth fire engineering market," said Maurice Conroy, SVP of Corporate Development at Jensen Hughes.
