We have good news today!

Hurt & Proffitt (H&P) and Reynolds-Clark Development (Reynolds-Clark), are excited to announce that they have combined the two companies. The combination of H&P and Reynolds-Clark brings together two well-respected Virginia civil engineering firms, who have both been serving clients throughout Virginia and North Carolina.

On April 5, 2023, Reynolds-Clark joined H&P's operation and will do business as H&P. The office will remain in Gretna, VA, and will continue to emphasize responsiveness and close attention to their current clients' needs. "Moving forward, clients will continue to maintain relationships with the individuals they have worked with in the past," said Gretchen Clark, President of Reynolds-Clark.

Gretchen Clark, PE, and Tim Reynolds, PE, who formed Reynolds-Clark, have both been named Vice Presidents at H&P. Gretchen will also serve as Director of Site Permitting and Tim will serve as Director of Land Development.

"We are excited about the opportunities that the combined forces of our two firms will hold for the future," says H&P President Bif Johnson. "Our industry is rapidly changing and growing. This acquisition will allow us to meet those changes head-on and allow us to broaden our services."

Founded in 2004, Reynolds-Clark is a progressive civil engineering consulting firm specializing in site design, utility design, stormwater management and environmental planning. Over the years, Reynolds-Clark has served as planners, designers, stewards, and advocates matching their professional expertise to clients' needs.

H&P is celebrating 50 years in business this year and has offices in Lynchburg, Blacksburg, Roanoke, and Wytheville. Combined, H&P and Reynolds-Clark will be a full-service civil engineering and surveying firm, strategically positioned to serve our clients on commercial, industrial, institutional, residential, and municipal projects.
