

AmaTerra Environmental, Inc. is now AmaTerra Environmental, an ERG Company

April 3, 2023

We at AmaTerra Environmental, Inc., are excited to announce that we've recently been acquired by Environmental Research Group, LLC, a woman-owned (WO, aka. WBE), service-disabled-veteran-owned (SDV), 8(a) environmental consulting firm. Founded in Texas 23 years ago, ERG is currently headquartered in Baltimore, Maryland, with employees in 24 states, working on projects throughout the United States and the Pacific Rim. We're thrilled to remain a part of the small business community while joining this vibrant, award-winning firm.

We are now AmaTerra Environmental, an ERG Company. Still Woman-Owned. Now Service-Disabled Veteran-Owned. Always Small Business.

The environmental and cultural resource landscapes have been volatile in recent years. With so many mergers and acquisitions, it's become commonplace for us to adjust quickly as our long-standing professional partnerships change in rapid succession. We're confident that this one's different. Without qualification or hesitation, we feel that this acquisition is succeeding where so many others simply haven't: we are conscientiously staying the same where stability and familiarity matter, and we're also keeping an intelligent and strategic eye on the future with increased capabilities and smart, complementary expertise.

In short, AmaTerra Environmental, an ERG Company, really is the best of both worlds. We are eagerly looking forward to continued – and improved! – relationships with all of you for many years to come.

Link to original press release:

<https://www.amaterra.com/amaterra-erg-announcement>