

LJA Engineering Acquires R.J. Rhodes Engineering

May 1, 2023

LJA Engineering, Inc. (LJA) has acquired R.J. Rhodes Engineering, a professional surveying and civil engineering consulting company.

Since 1999, R.J. Rhodes Engineering has been providing clients throughout Sarasota and Manatee County with professional land surveying and mapping services. They have steadily grown their practice of highly motivated and talented engineers and established themselves as the go-to firm for delivering projects that meet today's stringent standards of practice. As they begin their 23rd year in business, they saw it fit to expand their capabilities to better serve their clients while growing into new territories.

LJA Engineering, with over 50 years in business primarily throughout Texas, is expanding its engineering, land surveying and land development offerings in Florida. Like R.J. Rhodes, LJA Engineering has built its business around servicing clients exceptionally well and delivering projects that meet and exceed expectations. Both companies believe that by coming together, they both will be able to provide existing and new clients throughout Florida with comprehensive services and new areas of expertise.

We believe that by joining forces, both firms will be able to provide existing and new clients throughout Florida with comprehensive services and new areas of expertise.
