

Aspect Consulting Joins the Geosyntec Family of Companies, Supporting Client Service in the Pacific Northwest and Beyond

June 05, 2023

Aspect Consulting (Aspect), an earth science and engineering consulting firm based in Washington State, has joined the Geosyntec family of companies. This transformative partnership will advance a shared vision with Aspect for growing water supply and resilience, environmental, and geotechnical practice areas in the Pacific Northwest and beyond.

Founded in 2001, Aspect is a team of more than 130 hydrogeologists, geologists, water resource, environmental, geotechnical engineers, and supporting professionals who guide the balanced and sustainable use of earth and water resources in the Pacific Northwest and western United States. Their work includes water resource consultation, stormwater management, geotechnical engineering, data management and mapping, and management of complex environmental projects for public- and private-sector clients.

Peter Zeeb, PhD, PG, President and CEO of Geosyntec, characterized the acquisition as follows: “Joining forces with Aspect will dramatically advance our collective capacity for delivering integrated, multidiscipline expertise targeted at some of the most complex and critical environmental and water-related challenges facing our clients in the Pacific Northwest, arid Southwest, and other markets. We are excited about what we will accomplish together.”

Tim Flynn, LHG, CGWP, CEO of Aspect, said, “Combining Aspect and Geosyntec’s earth and water expertise and geographic reach will enhance our ability to offer innovative and sustainable approaches towards solving today’s consequential water supply, water-related, and environmental issues. We are thrilled to join our new Geosyntec colleagues in providing advisory consulting services that positively impact our communities and help our clients achieve their goals.”

Geosyntec has been serving clients from offices in Portland, Oregon and Seattle, Washington for more than 20 years. Aspect’s capabilities and delivery capacity will enrich and enlarge our combined market presence in the Pacific Northwest and accelerate many strategic initiatives in the western United States and beyond.

AEC Advisors (www.aecadvisors.com) initiated the transaction and advised Aspect Consulting.

Link to original press release:

https://geosyntec.com/news/item/8136-aspect-consulting-joins-the-geosyntec-family-of-companies,-supporting-client-service-in-the-pacific-northwest-and-beyond?utm_campaign=Acquisition%20Aspect&utm_content=251642624&utm_medium=social&utm_source=linkedin&hss_channel=lcp-21488