

Transystems acquires Baltimore-based Whitney Bailey Cox & Magnani, LLC

June 19, 2023

TranSystems Corp., a national transportation consulting firm that provides engineering, architectural, planning and construction solutions, acquires Whitney Bailey Cox & Magnani, LLC (WBCM), an engineering consulting firm delivering projects to public and private clients throughout the Mid-Atlantic region and across the U.S.

Founded in 1977 and headquartered in Baltimore, Md., WBCM has grown to more than 225 employees and has nine offices across six states in the Eastern U.S.

“The WBCM and TranSystems combination is natural with similar focuses on innovative transportation and infrastructure solutions,” said TranSystems CEO Richard Morsches. “This merger will yield immediate and long-term benefits for both companies strengthening our presence in the Mid-Atlantic Region along with enhancing our talent and capabilities to be applied across the U.S.”

WBCM’s 225-person team will join the TranSystems national 1,500-person workforce. Recently joining TranSystems was North Carolina-based SEPI Engineering & Construction, Inc. and California-based OPC Services in fall 2022. TranSystems is ranked #15 on the ENR Top Transportation firms list.

“We are thrilled about the opportunities that come with joining the TranSystems family,” said WBCM President Marco Legaluppi. “This acquisition brings together two highly respected firms with a shared commitment to delivering innovative solutions to our clients. Our combined resources and expertise will enable us to take on more significant and complex projects while expanding our reach to new markets. For our employees, this acquisition provides exciting opportunities for career growth and development, and it provides access to a wider range of services and expertise for our clients. We are confident that this merger will positively impact both our clients and employees, and we look forward to the opportunities that lie ahead.”

Sentinel Capital Partners continues to team with TranSystems to expand its presence in the infrastructure industry.
