

RMA announces the acquisition of A3GEO

September 19, 2023

RMA Companies (“RMA”) today announced that it has acquired A3GEO (“A3GEO”), a provider of geotechnical, geologic, and earthquake engineering services in Northern California. Since December 2021, RMA has completed eight acquisitions, as it executes an aggressive growth strategy to build a national platform providing geotechnical engineering, environmental consulting, construction materials testing, inspection, and certification to support the development of the nation’s critical infrastructure.

“The addition of A3GEO to the RMA Family of Companies strengthens our geotechnical, geologic, and seismic service offerings in California”

Founded in 2010, A3GEO serves public and private customers across multiple markets with specialized expertise identifying, characterizing, and mitigating geohazard-related risks associated with ground shaking, land sliding, and liquefaction. Based in Berkeley, California, A3GEO serves customers from initial risk assessment through foundation design, and is led by founders, Dona Kelly, PE, GE and Wayne Magnusen, PE, GE. A3GEO will operate as a business unit of RMA GeoScience and Dona Kelly will lead the combined group as President.

“The addition of A3GEO to the RMA Family of Companies strengthens our geotechnical, geologic, and seismic service offerings in California,” said Ed Lyon, CEO of RMA. “The addition of A3GEO’s capabilities, certifications and key client relationships will allow us to pursue a wide range of federally funded projects throughout the Western United States.”

“We have built an extensive track record of customer service and employee development as a top-tier geotechnical, geological, and seismic engineering firm in Northern California,” said Dona Kelly. “This acquisition will bring new resources and expertise to our customers, and we are excited to continue our growth strategy.”

“I am thrilled to have taken this step as it will open new doors for our clients and create opportunities for our professional staff,” said Wayne Magnusen.
