

Array Architects Expands Team with Acquisition of DCC Design Group

October 26, 2023

Array Architects announced today the acquisition of DCC Design Group (Wilmington, DE), the leading healthcare-focused interior design firm in the Mid-Atlantic. The move provides strategic growth and expands Array's interior design capacity to serve clients, adding even more talent to the award-winning group. Array's leadership team also deepens as a result. Nicole Cocolin, formerly President of DCC Design Group, now steps into the role of Principal & Practice Leader, Interior Design.

"DCC Design Group is a perfect fit for integration with Array," said Array Architects President Noah Tolson. "We share a mutual dedication to a process-led approach, unwavering commitment to client service, a passion for design excellence, and a relentless focus on healthcare – making it a natural synergy that is destined to shine for our clients."

Impact on Clients and Partners

Array and DCC's clients, many of whom were already shared, now benefit from a deeper roster of interior designers. The team's diverse work experience advances an environment of knowledge sharing, benefiting the team's collective projects across the country. The expanded capacity not only offers fresh collaboration prospects for clients, but also enhances the progress of ongoing endeavors. With nearly a decade of project collaboration, the two firms will seamlessly integrate.

The acquisition provides new opportunities for Array to continue its history of partnering with other designers. As Array Advisors serves as a strategic partner for design firms across the country, so too will the DCC team continue their track record of collaborating throughout the industry to assemble a client's ideal team.

"In my work, creativity and passion are driving forces, and I aim to inspire those values," Nicole Cocolin said. "Array, with its holistic design environment and unwavering appreciation for every discipline, was the natural choice for my team."

A Shared History

DCC Design Group started in 2015 by partnering with Array on a project at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick. However, even before then, the firm was on Nicole Cocolin's radar.

"When I contemplated stepping in the world of entrepreneurship, I scoured the industry for women who had blazed a trail. Patricia Malick, the co-founder of Array, was a beacon of inspiration," Cocolin fondly reflects. "Her journey became a guiding light for me as I embarked on the path of building my own firm."

Link to original press release:

<https://array-architects.com/press-release/array-architects-expands-team-with-acquisition-of-dcc-design-group/>