High Mesa Consulting Group Joins Bowman

Natick, MA (November 16, 2023) – High Mesa Consulting Group (“High Mesa”), a multi-disciplinary consulting firm headquartered in Albuquerque, New Mexico, joined Bowman Consulting Group, an engineering services firm delivering infrastructure solutions to customers who own, develop, and maintain the built environment.

Founded in 1977, High Mesa provides land and UAV (drone) based surveying, mapping, and geospatial services; sub-surface utility infrastructure engineering, inspection, and mapping; civil engineering; and planning services throughout New Mexico, Eastern Arizona, and Southwestern Colorado. High Mesa is Bowman’s tenth acquisition in 2023.

High Mesa serves a wide range of customers involved in the design, construction and operation of horizontal and vertical infrastructure, including local, state and federal clients, in addition to private sector owners, contractors and other technical consultants.

“High Mesa is a great addition to Bowman and immediately expands our reach into growing markets we do not currently serve,” said Gary Bowman, chairman and CEO of Bowman.

“This is the next chapter in the storied history of our firm,” said Charles Cala, president of High Mesa. “We have achieved a tremendous amount during the firm’s 46-year history, and I am incredibly proud of the work we’ve delivered to our customers and our communities. Today we start the next phase of our professional journey as a part of Bowman. We are excited about the opportunities this presents for our staff, for our clients and for our collective futures. We’re all ready to get to work adding value to Bowman.”

Morrissey Goodale, a specialized management consulting and research firm exclusively serving the architecture, engineering, and environmental consulting industries, initiated the transaction and advised High Mesa.
