

SRG Partnership joins CannonDesign

February 1, 2024

We are thrilled to announce SRG Partnership, a dynamic architecture, interiors and planning firm with studios in Portland, Oregon, and Seattle, Washington, has joined CannonDesign. This merger of talent represents not only a fusion of businesses but a powerhouse union of two firms committed to making a profound difference through design.

Both SRG Partnership and CannonDesign share a commitment to designing spaces that help people, communities and the environment flourish. Together, our firms will amplify our impact throughout the Pacific Northwest and across the country, setting new standards for transformative design for health and wellness, education, science and technology, sports and recreation, and culture.

Going forward, SRG Partnership will be known as SRG + CannonDesign. With the addition of SRG's Portland and Seattle studios, CannonDesign now has 18 offices and nearly 1,300 teammates across North America and India.

“SRG Partnership defines itself with a statement — Invent a better future — that truly resonates with me,” says CannonDesign’s CEO Bradley Lukanic, AIA. “Partnering with this established design firm is a wonderful start to the year. The alignment and focus between our firms will drive us forward; together we’re going to create positive impacts with design excellence in and outside our communities.”
