February 21, 2025

Negotiations are nearly complete for Olsson to acquire Darr & Collins, LLC Consulting Engineers, a mechanical, electrical, and plumbing (MEP) engineering firm in Edmond, Oklahoma.

The acquisition will allow Olsson to bolster its MEP services and expand its offerings across Oklahoma. Founded in 1995, Darr & Collins designs MEP systems for the hospitality, education, corporate office, government, correctional, health care, banking, and industrial markets.

The acquisition will allow Olsson to bolster its MEP services and expand its offerings across Oklahoma. “We are thrilled to add Darr & Collins’ expertise to our suite of services,” said Dave Roberts, Olsson’s Chief Development Officer. “They have an excellent reputation in mechanical and electrical design. I’m eager to welcome their employees to our Oklahoma City office.”

The acquisition will enable Darr & Collins employees to work on higher level projects and access expanded career pathways across Olsson’s national footprint.

“We are excited to join Olsson,” said Chuck Darr, principal at Darr & Collins. “This acquisition will allow us to continue providing the quality services our clients expect while expanding the services we offer.”

The acquisition is anticipated to close on February 28, 2025. Terms will not be released.
