

Announcing the Acquisition of EcoAnalysts, Inc.

January 16, 2025

Spheros Environmental, a leader in comprehensive environmental consulting solutions, is pleased to announce the acquisition of EcoAnalysts, Inc., a prominent environmental consulting firm specializing in aquatic ecology and habitat assessment. With this acquisition, EcoAnalysts becomes the latest addition to Spheros Environmental's growing portfolio, enhancing the company's ability to deliver science-driven, holistic services to clients addressing complex environmental challenges.

Founded in 1995, EcoAnalysts has established itself as a trusted leader in aquatic and terrestrial biological consulting services, providing data-driven insights to help clients navigate complex environmental challenges. The company's services, which include biological monitoring, ecological impact analysis, ecological risk assessment, ecotoxicity and taxonomic identification services, align seamlessly with Spheros Environmental's mission to deliver comprehensive, science-based solutions and sustainability consulting for our clients and our communities.

"The addition of EcoAnalysts reinforces Spheros Environmental's commitment to delivering innovative, integrated solutions across the spectrum of our natural resources," said Andra Kidd, CEO, Spheros Environmental. "Their exceptional reputation in aquatic ecology consulting and their commitment to building a supportive work culture for their people make them a natural fit for our growing organization."

EcoAnalysts will operate as a part of Spheros Environmental, maintaining its offices in Moscow, ID; Port Gamble, WA; and Alachua, FL, while collaborating across the broader organization to leverage enhanced resources and technical expertise.

"EcoAnalysts is excited to join Spheros Environmental and contribute to its mission of advancing environmental science and sustainability," said Gary Lester, CEO, EcoAnalysts. "Our 30 plus year history has positioned us for this opportunity to team with Spheros Environmental and grow our services and client base as part of a larger team of experienced environmental professionals, with a shared vision to deliver innovative environmental solutions to all of our clients."

This acquisition underscores Spheros Environmental's commitment to building a premier environmental consulting organization. By bringing together leading expertise across disciplines, Spheros is positioned as a trusted advisor to clients navigating today's most pressing environmental challenges.
