Atwell acquires Capital Civil Engineering

Natick, MA (June 17, 2025) – Atwell has acquired the operations of Capital Civil Engineering (CCE), an engineering firm located in Apex, North Carolina. This acquisition expands Atwell’s presence in North Carolina and the Southeast.

With a 15-year history of engineering excellence, CCE is known for its expertise in engineering, site planning, land planning, and stormwater management. Founded by Michael Kane and co-owned by Michael McQuillen, the CCE team has decades of experience with regional and national projects.

“At CCE, we have a strong reputation of professionalism, high standards of quality, and client satisfaction,” said Kane. “Atwell shares the same values and goals, so we’re looking forward to expanding our capabilities and introducing new opportunities to our clients and employees.”

“CCE has an impressive portfolio of work and strong partnerships throughout North Carolina and beyond,” said Ron Waldrop, Senior Vice President at Atwell. “Their engineering expertise and client-centered approach mirror Atwell’s commitment to exceptional work and building strong relationships. We’re excited to work with the CCE team to support existing and future clients in reaching their goals.”

This is Atwell’s third acquisition in 2025, preceded by the acquisition of Georgia-based SEI Engineering in January 2025 and Arizona-based Terrascope Consulting in February 2025.

Morrissey Goodale, a specialized management consulting and research firm exclusively serving the architecture, engineering, and environmental consulting industries, advised Atwell in the transaction.
