Littlejohn & Co. Acquires Milrose Consultants

Natick, MA (June 3, 2026) – Littlejohn & Co. has acquired Milrose Consultants from Southfield Capital. Milrose is engaged in providing building regulatory, code compliance, permitting, and consulting services.

Milrose Consultants was founded in 1988 and is headquartered in New York City. The firm offers services across the building lifecycle, including permitting, architectural and engineering consulting, code consulting, municipal compliance, and special inspections.

“Milrose has developed an established and well-respected brand providing an essential service to the built environment,” said Brian Michaud, Managing Director at Littlejohn. “Our investment in Milrose is a natural extension of Littlejohn’s deep experience investing in differentiated providers of products and services to the building and infrastructure markets, and we look forward to bringing our resources and network to strategically grow the platform and further enhance its capabilities.”

“Littlejohn’s extensive track record scaling technical services businesses, paired with the team’s highly focused, operationally driven, long-term approach to value creation align well with Milrose’s growth ambitions,” said Dominic Maurillo, Chief Executive Officer of Milrose. “With Littlejohn’s resources and expertise operating in the building and infrastructure markets, we are well positioned for strategic geographic expansion, M&A, and new investment in technology, talent, and platform capabilities as we seek to deliver the high-quality building services our clients have come to expect and rely on.”
